To The Reader:

The Lebanon County Area Agency on Aging recognizes the difficult decisions that must be made by older individuals and their families when considering placement in a long-term care facility. This directory has been compiled in order to provide information about the many alternatives available and to better enable individuals and their families to make those decisions.

In some situations, in-home services from community agencies may provide the help needed to maintain an individual in his or her home. In other instances, however, it may be clear that a personal care home is the more appropriate choice. We hope that this directory will help to provide enough information to make an informed decision about this difficult choice. However, we suggest that individual personal care homes be contacted directly for more specific information prior to making any final decisions.

Although every effort has been made to provide sufficient information on the different personal care homes, this is not intended to be an exhaustive or all inclusive directory. It is important to note that a small number of personal care homes in Lebanon County have chosen not to be included in this publication. The directory will be reprinted periodically and information will be revised accordingly.

For more information on anything mentioned in this publication, please contact the Lebanon County Area Agency on Aging, 710 Maple Street, 2nd Floor, Lebanon, PA 17046 or phone 717-273-9262.
INTRODUCTION

The purpose of this directory is to provide a single consolidated source of information about personal care homes in Lebanon County. Information on each facility was furnished by its administrator or owner during an interview. Drafts of this information were also submitted to the administrators or owners for their approval prior to printing.

This directory is not meant to provide an evaluation of each facility. Nor is it intended to take the place of an actual visit to a personal care home. The information was gathered to provide current facts and descriptive information to individuals and families so that their choices about long-term care can be more informed ones.

It is also important to note that there are many differences between the personal care homes represented in this directory. Some provide strictly personal care services, while others exist as part of a larger complex that includes a variety of care alternatives and living arrangements. Furthermore, there is likely to be great variation among facilities regarding staffing.

Personal care homes are required to have an administrator, or a designee who is 21 years of age or older appointed by the administrator, to be on the premises on a 24 hour basis. They are required to maintain a sufficient number of trained staff persons to provide the necessary level of care required by the residents, and to ensure a safe and efficient evacuation of the facility in case of an emergency. The staffing of each facility is based upon the number of residents and their particular needs. Some facilities have various types of staff present on a regular basis (either full-time or part-time), while others might have arrangements for staff to be present on an on-call basis through contractual arrangements with outside agencies. In addition, the manner in which meal preparation, housekeeping and maintenance services are provided varies between homes. In any case, staffing decisions are made at the discretion of each personal care home administrator or owner in accordance with the Personal Care Home Licensing Rules and Regulations. Specific questions about any personal care home should be addressed to its administrative or admissions staff. It is also advisable that individuals, their families and caregivers request a tour of any facility in which they are interested. For more information on the regulations, please visit the PA Department of Human Services’ website at www.dhw.state.pa.us.

DECIPHERING A STATE SURVEY OF A PERSONAL CARE HOME

Once a year, the Department of Human Services conducts an on-site re-licensing survey of each of the state’s nearly 1500 personal care homes. During these inspections, surveyors review resident records and other documentation, paying special attention to the following:

- That resident records are complete and include:
  - The current and previous two years physician’s examination reports, including copies of the medical evaluation forms.
  - A copy of the written agreement between the facility and the resident
  - A list of prescribed medications
  - Dietary restrictions, if any
  - An inventory of the resident’s personal property as voluntarily declared by the resident upon admission and voluntarily updated
  - A list of allergies, if known
- Unusual incident reports
- Documents which verify employee work schedules to ensure that required staffing levels are met
- A copy of the home’s rules
- A weekly activity calendar
- Permits and Certificates
- Waivers (if any have been granted)
- A record of monthly fire drills and fire safety records
- Adherence to posted menus and nutritionally balanced meals
- Administration training and orientation documentation
- Personal care home non-discrimination services, admission and employment policies

If the Department surveyor finds that the personal care home is not in compliance with the licensing regulations, it may issue a Class I, Class II, or a Class III citation. These classifications are based upon the severity, duration, and the adverse effect on the health and safety of residents.

Class I violations have a substantial probability of resulting in death or serious mental or physical harm to a resident

Class II violations have a substantial adverse effect upon the health, safety or well-being of a resident

Class III violations are minor violations which have an adverse effect upon the health, safety or well-being of a resident.

Depending on the nature and classification of a violation of the Personal Care Home Licensing Regulations, the administrator of the home may be required to:

- Pay a fine for each day the violation is left uncorrected
- Give each resident oral and/or written notification of the violation

In addition, the Department of Human Services is required to provide immediate written notification of Class I violations to the appropriate long-term care Ombudsman. To review a home’s most recent survey, simply ask the administrator or contact the Pennsylvania Department of Human Services.
It is very important to have a clear understanding of the financial requirements of any facility before proceeding with admission. Costs and financial arrangements vary greatly among personal care homes, and each home under consideration should be contacted directly to get specific information.

Depending upon the size, character and services of the home, daily rates will vary. In addition, there may be hidden costs which are not reflected in the daily rate but may add substantially to the bill. For example, medications, medical supplies and appliances, and personal laundry may be extra. Specific items included in the daily rate will vary depending upon an individual’s payment source, so it is advisable to discuss coverage with administrative or admissions staff of facilities being considered.

There are typically three ways of paying for personal care home charges: Private Pay, Supplemental Security Income (SSI) supplement, and Long-Term Care Insurance.

- PRIVATE PAY. This means paying the personal care home fees out of one’s own pocket, utilizing personal resources.

- SUPPLEMENTAL SECURITY INCOME (SSI) SUPPLEMENT. SSI is a federal program administered by the Social Security Administration; but SSI is not the same as Social Security. The SSI supplement will pay for personal care for persons who need such care and whose income and resources are within certain limits. Eligible persons usually do not need additional insurance because they receive a Medicaid card as well. Not all personal care homes will accept the SSI supplement; therefore, it is important to inquire about this when selecting a personal care home, even if a person expects to enter on a private pay basis. It should be determined whether the personal care home will continue to provide care when a patient’s resources are depleted.

Persons receiving the SSI supplement in a personal care home also receive a nominal monthly sum for personal use. In many homes this sum may be used to pay for items not included in the regular charges, such as laundry services, hair care, particular brands of soap and shampoo.

When a person applies for the SSI supplement, an assessment is required to determine if personal care is the proper level of care. This will be done by OPTIONS staff of the Area Agency on Aging.

- LONG-TERM CARE INSURANCE. The need for long-term care insurance arises in part from the fact that Medicare does not pay for custodial care, the kind of care that older people need. (Medicare assists only with skilled nursing care).

When a long-term care insurance policy refers to custodial care, it is referring to assistance with activities of daily living (such as bathing, dressing, eating, walking, etc.) which can be provided by someone without special medical skills.

Policies are available to cover the cost of assistance for custodial care and nursing care. Anyone in the market for long-term care insurance should probably purchase insurance that will cover personal care and nursing care, as well as care in the home. It is advisable to thoroughly discuss available policies with an insurance agent to be sure that any policy being considered covers the cost of a personal care home.
Questions and concerns about long-term care insurance can be addressed by the APPRISE program. APPRISE is a free service provided for persons 60 years of age and over who need help with their Medicare and other health care insurance questions and claims. Lebanon County Area Agency on Aging administers the APPRISE program. For further information, call the Area Agency on Aging at 717-273-9262. Collect calls are also accepted.

This program does not endorse any one company or policy and cannot advise the purchase of any particular coverage. APPRISE counselors assist with an understanding of the coverage and benefits of a number of policies for purpose of comparison. All decisions as to which policy to carry is made by the consumer.

The patient and his family should be aware of his basic rights as a resident of a personal care home before being admitted. The personal care home resident has the right to:

AFTER PLACEMENT INFORMATION

Handling Complaints

Careful selection of a personal care home should minimize the likelihood of problems. However, at times problems may arise and should be addressed. It is best to first follow the procedures established by the facility. If the issue cannot be resolved through this channel, the Area Agency on Aging’s Long-Term Care Ombudsman program may be contacted.

What is an Ombudsman?

- A trained individual who investigates complaints on behalf of residents in nursing facilities, personal care homes, and domiciliary care homes. The Ombudsman will also address problems with in-home services provided to those living in the community.
- A resident advocate who works to resolve these complaints to the satisfaction of both the resident and the facility.

How does it work?

- The resident, family members or friends, contact the long term care ombudsman for questions or to register a complaint about the treatment or care of an individual in a LTC facility.
- The Ombudsman considers each complaint to determine what steps, if any, have been taken to resolve this issue with the personal care home or nursing facility administrator, director of nursing or social worker.
- With the consent of the resident, or responsible party if resident is unable to give consent, the Ombudsman contacts all parties involved and attempts to objectively resolve the complaint.
- If resolution at the local level is impossible, the complaint is referred to the State Long-Term Care Ombudsman at the Pennsylvania Department of Aging.
IN-HOME SERVICES

Lebanon County Area Agency on Aging provides services primarily for county residents, 60 years of age and over, which enable them to remain independent within their own homes. Area Agency on Aging services includes care management, assessment of needs and services.

Services typically include assistance with meals, personal care, housekeeping and laundry; financial assistance with caregiving expenses; and Adult Day Care services. More intensive services may be offered to persons who are appropriate for nursing home care, to enable them to remain in their own homes. Nursing facility eligible persons who are 60 years of age and over and meet criteria for Medical Assistance eligibility may be served through the PDA Waiver program.

DEFINITIONS OF CARE

Personal Care Home

Personal Care is a term meaning the supervisory care received by guests who need a protective facility mostly as an overseer for financial affairs, supervision of medication, diet, and other personal needs which they are beginning to have problems handling independently. Personal Care residents may have assistance with their personal care, and some of the exhausting tasks of independent living (i.e. laundry, cleaning, meal preparation, scheduling of appointments, etc.) which are performed by trained facility staff. The Personal Care resident is under the care of the staff physician, or his own physician in the community. The home provides food, shelter, and supervision for four or more adults. Residents do not require the level of care offered in a hospital or nursing home, Personal care is the right choice when, for reasons of comfort, safety and peace of mind, a senior and his/her relatives realize that professional assistance in a residential setting is appropriate.

Assisted Living Residence

Assisted Living Residence licensure is more stringent than Personal Care regulations and the facility can use the title “Assisted Living Residence” only if they have been approved for licensure.

The large Federal Mansion was a spacious and comfortable home for Congressman Kreider and his family. In 1982, the mansion was restored, a wing added, and now as a personal care residence, offers a beautiful home-like setting for retired individuals. In 2002, an additional wing was added. Currently Hill Farm is a non-profit organization.

Located less than a mile north of Lebanon Valley College on Route 934 in Annville as you turn left onto Kauffman Road, the estate sits high on a hill overlooking the Annville Community.
